

Librarian's Report
Freedom Public Library
January 12, 2019

The 13th Annual Winter Film Series is off to a great start with 30 people attending and good feedback for the first film. This event is beloved by those who attend and is a cozy way to bring the community together in the winter months.

Our weekly adult programs – cribbage, Mah Jongg and knitting - are another way we've been bringing the community together. Each program has a dedicated following and is well attended. Freedom part-time resident John Perkins approached me about getting involved in the library and we discussed a number of ideas for how he might do so. For his debut, he will be teaching a class in Microsoft Office on Saturday, February 9. Our next Game Night for Adults is this Tuesday at 5:30. Whist will be one of the games! On Tuesday, January 29, the Friends of the Library is holding a program at the library on henna tattoos, a hands-on workshop for 10-13 participants. Preschool storytime hasn't met since before Christmas. Two sessions weren't held because of the holiday schedule and this week it was canceled because of bad weather. I miss those kids! Chris has had four adults express interest in his teen/adult Dungeons and Dragons series that will be held two Tuesdays per month beginning February 5. There are potentially three teens as well.

I am meeting with Suzanne Pohl, Cindy Fleming and literacy expert Louise Wrobleski on Monday at the library to brainstorm good uses for the Morrow bequest. I am so pleased that these women and others I have talked to about it are quite interested in being involved in the planning.

Sincerely,

Elizabeth A. Rhymer
