

Freedom Public Library Presents

Creativity Workshop

When: Wednesdays July 11 – August 15 from 10:00-11:30.
Drop-ins welcome. Come to one or all six sessions.

Where: Freedom Public Library

For: Students in Grades 5-12

Led by: Cindy Fleming

Why do we write? To tell stories? To give information? To share how we feel? Yes! All these – and more!

This summer, students going into grades 5-12 are invited to join us for some writing fun and games. Each week we'll have different writing activities, storytelling games, and some arts and crafts in the mix. You can also use the morning to work on writing projects you're working on at home. The main thing is to have fun being creative. Popcorn and lemonade will be served.

Cindy Fleming lives in Freedom Village. She's a former teacher, and is now a writer – mostly writing content for online courses. She also writes stories for children and adults, and hopes to publish her stories someday.